his base even at the risk of encountering Nodzu's strong army on the way.

The strength of the Japanese force is believed to be far greater than that of the Russians and it is believed that by the time Kuropatkin reaches Liao Yang, the Japanese army will be of such size that it will be able to sweep Kuropatkin's whole army before it.

Look for Great Battle.

Experts here do not place any reliance on the St. Petersburg reports that the greater part of Kuropatkin's army is now either at Liao Yang or on the way to Mukden, while a very small force is holding Hai Cheng against Oku and Nodzu. It is not believed that such a great movement of troops could be accomplished without coming to the knowledge of the Japanese. Therefore, they look for a great battle at Liao Yang or south of that place if the Japanese should succeed in intercepting Kuropatkin, as it is considered very likely they will.

Port Arthur, it is believed, is in a very bad way, in view of the capture of Shantai Kow. Military men hold that unless the positions of the principal forts has been greatly changed since the Chinese occupation, the possession of this point is the key to the Russian defenses. It is also reported that there are indications that the supply of ammunition is running low so that the fall of the fortress may be expected at any time now.

Not Satisfactory.

Russia's explanation of the sinking of the Knight Commander, together with a German and a Japanese vessel, that they had not sufficient coal to reach a Russian port, is scoffed at in naval circles. It is held to be absolutely improbable that three vessels should be found at Yokohama without sufficient coal to reach Vladivostok.

EFFECTS CONCENTRATION.

Kuropatkin Gives Accounts of Retreats and Says Kuroki Is Preparing to Strike.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 2.—The Emperor has received the following dispatch from General Kuropatkin, dated August 1st:

"According to reports of the officer commanding the eastern portion of our army, his troops after abandoning advanced positions in the Yangtze Pass, retired in the direction of Liandianli towards Salmatze and Liao Yang. 'Yesterday our troops,' after a stubborn fight, retired from their advanced posts to their principal position, but, although our troops held their advanced positions they sustained heavy losses. I hope that in their main positions they will maintain a successful struggle even against the numerically superior enemy. 'According to reports received during the last few days, General Kuroki has effected a concentration of his force in order to strike in the direction of Salmatze and Liao Yang. 'All the Japanese troops, which were posted in the direction of Benshikon and near Sassy, seemed to be moved during the night to the right bank of the Taitse River. 'To-day the enemy is acting decidedly on the southern front, but a reconnaissance has ascertained the beginning of a turning movement of the left wing of our troops posted at Hancheng by at least two Japanese divisions. 'Our eastern detachment was engaged until noon to-day in the direction of Samiatze and Liao Yang. It was seen that the enemy was advancing, apparently in small bodies, against the right flank of our guard."

"Mr. Richardson closed the case in a brief address. After a comparison of the characters of Goode and the negro witnesses against him, he said that if it were established that Gibson shot Shiner, then all the negroes were lying by this time. At 7:30 the jury returned, stating that no agreement had been reached. Adjournment followed at once.

EXPECTS HEAVY FIGHTING.

Russian General Looks for Attack All Along the Line.

(By Associated Press.) ST. PETERSBURG, August 2.—3:30 A. M.—According to the inevitable conflict in names, the Japanese and Russian reports seem to agree on the main features of the military developments up to August 1st, but both stop short at the interesting point, namely, whether it is possible that decisive struggle was going on east and south of Liao Yang.

General Kuropatkin admits that there were heavy losses along the Salmatze-Liao Yang road, July 31st. The official account is somewhat inconclusive, but it is possible that the Russian held out, although the Russians withdrew from their advanced posts. Kuropatkin hoped to be able to hold his main positions even in the face of the superior Japanese force, and that he evidently expected heavy fighting along this line, probably about Anping. This battle, however, was not fought, although the dispatch reports all was quiet up to noon of August 1st. In the meantime, a serious enveloping movement of three Japanese divisions was maturing around the Russian left at Hai Cheng where there already was heavy fighting on July 31st.

No news has been received from Port Arthur.

KUROKI'S GREAT VICTORY.

Administrators Severe Defeat to Russians in Two Separate Actions.

(By Associated Press.) TOKIO, August 2.—News of General Kuroki's administration of a severe defeat to the Russians who defended the Russian east flank at Liao Yang, winning separate actions at Yushuliku and Yangtze Pass. The two places are twenty-six miles apart, but the two actions were fought at the same time. The thermometer held steady at 110 degrees; Fahrenheit and the soldiers suffered cruelly from heat exhaustion. At Yushuliku the Russians had two divisions of infantry and some

PRICE CUTTING.

We never wish to carry a Piano over from one season to another and this is one of the ways for bringing this about and through this method, we turn an otherwise dull season into a very busy one.

When one wants the best Piano, they always associate it with this house, whose every effort has been to carry the best, and so it is when you wish a modest priced Piano. We study the world's market to obtain and keep the best. We are not compelled to handle the output of any one factory, whether good or bad but all are open to us and you are the gainer by this fact.

Battle Raged All Day.

(By Associated Press.) HAI CHENG, Monday, August 1, 9:40 P. M.—Delayed in transmission—The battle raged the whole day, July 31st, along the southern and eastern fronts. The Japanese advanced with overwhelming force, compelling the Russians to retreat. The losses of the Russians, however, were slight. The Seventeenth Siberian Regiment drove the Japanese out of one position.

TRADE JOURNAL.

Granted a Charter and Devoted to the Nut Industry.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) PETERSBURG, Va., August 2.—The Corporation Commission has granted a charter incorporating the Trade Journal Publishing Company, which is devoted to the publication of a journal devoted to the nut industry. The officers named for the first year are: William N. Roper, president; Hugh M. McAllen, vice-president; Samuel N. Venable, secretary and treasurer. There, with Carter R. Bishop and Bartlett Roper, composed the directors.

The purpose of the company is the publication of the Trade Journal in this city, the first issue of which appeared in January. The publication is devoted mainly to the nut industry, and is recognized as an authority on peanuts. Though it has not yet been published, it is expected to be a valuable addition to the industry. The Trade Journal has gained a large circulation and has subscribers in twenty-five States. The corporation will further its work by publishing a paper devoted to the nut industry, and the publication of being the only trade paper devoted to the nut industry. The success of this paper has been such that more than a hundred thousand copies have been published.

Baptist Associations.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) CHATAM, Va., August 2.—The Rappahannock Baptist Association met with Greenfield Church Saturday and Sunday. Each day a large crowd was in attendance.

The first day was devoted to the same day with Mountain Spring Church. Saturday the crowd was of very good size. Sunday a large crowd was present for the services, which lasted most of the day. Sumptuous dinners were served each day.

St. Petersburg Papers Say Decisive Moment in War Has Arrived.

(By Associated Press.) ST. PETERSBURG, August 2.—All the military critics this morning took the view that the decisive moment of the campaign has arrived.

The army organ says that General Kuroki prepared for his advance by drawing in his forces, which were sent over a front of forty miles. The paper says it is evident that a large Japanese force is working along the Salmatze-Liao Yang line.

It expresses doubt, however, which advance of the enemy will push home and whether it is Kuroki's intention to try to finish Kuropatkin north or south of Liao Yang.

The Russ says: "The decisive moment has arrived, but, judging from the latest reports, the Russians have retained their positions and this time it will not be an order to retreat."

OBSTINATE FIGHTING.

Sakharoff Reports Retirement of Russian Vanguard to Yangtze Pass.

(By Associated Press.) ST. PETERSBURG, August 2.—General Sakharoff, under date of August 1st, reports obstinate fighting in the direction of the Salmatze-Liao Yang road July 31st and that the Russian vanguard retained its position until August 1st, when it retired to Yangtze Pass.

During a reconnaissance in the direction of Feng Wang Cheng July 30th, General Sakharoff reports that two officers and thirty-four men were wounded, and on July 31st, during a reconnaissance in the direction of Laokhausia, two officers were killed and one officer and twenty men were wounded. The same day, when the Japanese occupied the Pass between Yanahukan and Houlatze (twenty-five miles from Liao Yang), five officers and forty men were wounded. General Sakharoff also states "the enemy is acting undecidedly on our south front."

VLADIVOSTOK SQUADRON.

Detailed Report of Its Recent Movements—Vessels Sunk and Captured.

(By Associated Press.) ST. PETERSBURG, August 2.—In lengthy telegram to the Emperor, Vice Admiral Skrydloff relates the movements of the Vladivostok squadron under Rear Admiral Jesso.

With the cruisers Rossia, Grönobol and Rurik, Admiral Jesso left Vladivostok July 20th. After sinking a small Japanese vessel, the cruisers held up the British steamer Canara, but as she had no cargo and "was not caught in the act of carrying contraband of war, we were compelled to let her go," says the dispatch. A Japanese coasting steamer was next met, but "as most of her fifty passengers were women, we determined to release her."

Two Japanese schooners were sunk. Then Admiral Jesso felt in quick succession with the British steamers Arabia and Knight Commander. Of the Arabia he says nothing new. "The Knight Commander" only stopped after the fourth shot," the admiral reports. Her cargo being railroad material, "undoubtedly contraband for the belligerent party and not being able to bring her to the nearest Russian port (owing to her not having enough coal), without manifest danger to the squadron, we sank the Knight Commander after taking off all her crew and removing her papers." Two more Japanese schooners, laden with salt, were then sunk.

The steamer Schinuan, from Australia for Yokohama, was inspected and released, July 24th, the Thea (a German vessel of 334 tons register), "with a full cargo of fish from America to Yokohama, was stopped. She was regarded as a legal prize and her crew was taken off and the vessel sunk owing to the impossibility of bringing her to a Russian port."

On July 30th near the northern coast a Japanese third-class cruiser and seven torpedo boats taking the same course as the Russians were sighted, while on the western coast near the Tugur Strait, a coast defender and a torpedo boat were sighted. "All these ships," Admiral Jesso says, "kept far astern of our cruisers, and after two hours they turned back. The Russian squadron suffered no loss in men and no damage, and there was no loss of life on the vessels sunk or taken."
